COMMISSION OVERVIEW

History

In 1997 the Wisconsin State Legislature replaced the state's indeterminate sentencing with "truth in sentencing," which went into effect in 1999. It also created the Criminal Penalties Study Committee with the following duties:

- To develop a uniform classification system for all state felonies and Class A misdemeanors, with all felonies brought together into a single code
- To organize a state sentencing commission to develop advisory sentencing guidelines for sentences "bifurcated" into incarceration and extended supervision (ES) components
- To adapt state Department of Corrections administrative rules in order to foster prompt return of ES violators for appropriate periods of time

In 1999 the Committee issued its mandated report with the new felony classification system, temporary advisory sentencing guidelines, and a recommendation to create a permanent sentencing commission. In 2002 the subsequent legislation, 2001 Wisconsin Act 109, was signed into law by the governor. The Commission started meeting in the fall of 2003, and staff began operations in January of 2004.

Membership and Organization

The Wisconsin Sentencing Commission is an independent, bipartisan criminal justice agency composed of 18 voting members representing all three branches of state government as well as local government agencies, related groups, and the general public. The Director of State Courts, the Secretary of the Department of Corrections, and the chair of the Wisconsin Parole Board serve as ex officio members. It provides sentencing data and information to courts, policymakers, practitioners, and the public. Its members are selected by the governor, the legislature, and the courts and serve a three-year, renewable term. The Commission executes its duties through three permanent committees: Sentencing Guidelines, Data and Research, and Public Outreach. Its membership and functions are detailed in its enabling legislation.

With the hiring of an Executive Director and Deputy Director, the Wisconsin Sentencing Commission began full operation in January 2004. Its duties under Wisconsin Statute §973.30 (2004) include (1) collecting and reporting state sentencing data, (2) adopting advisory sentencing guidelines for felonies committed on or after July 20, 2002, (3) providing correctional cost impact information to the state legislature and agencies as well as the public, (4) producing periodic reports on sentencing topics, (5) assisting the legislature in costing out effects of new or proposed sentencing legislation, and (6) analyzing the effect of race on state sentencing practice.

The Commission chair is University of Wisconsin Law professor and former state circuit court judge Susan Steingass. Michael Connelly, executive director, formerly directed Maryland's State Commission on Criminal Sentencing Policy and has a Ph.D. in political science from the University of Missouri. Kristi Waits, deputy director, has done data development and analysis for the Justice Research and Statistics Association in Washington, D.C., Maryland's State Commission on Criminal Sentencing Policy, and PricewaterhouseCoopers and has a Master's Degree in criminal justice from California State University at San Bernardino.

The Commission has posted a public website at <http://wsc.wi.gov>. The website contains the Commission's composition and legislative history, data and reports on state sentencing and guideline use, minutes and agendas of past meetings, and links to other data and reports relevant to state sentencing policy.

GOVERNOR'S CHARGE

Task to Commission

Governor Jim Doyle specifically tasked the Commission with the following¹:

"As you undertake these tasks, I ask that the Commission focus on the following areas consistent with your statutory charge:

"As you develop new, permanent sentencing guidelines for the State of Wisconsin, I encourage you to consider the mission of Truth In Sentencing-- to restore credibility and coherence to criminal sentencing and deliver a greater measure of public safety to our communities. The guidelines that you develop should ensure that this critical mission is met.

"As demonstrated in other states, successful Sentencing Commissions have solid data systems. I urge the Commission to develop of a strong, technology-based data collection system, which will be a critical component of your work. In order to maximize your data analysis capability, the data system you develop should be able to integrate data from the courts, the Department of Corrections, and other relevant sources. This technology will ensure that you not only have a system to ensure efficient data analysis, but also will provide the Commission with a mechanism to share information with judges, prosecutors, the defense bar, the legislature, and other policy makers.

"Further, as you evaluate new guidelines and compile critical data regarding sentencing practices throughout Wisconsin, I ask you to take into account whether sentences are consistently applied throughout the state and to examine the effects of inconsistent sentences. In our efforts to ensure equal justice for all, it is incumbent upon us to ensure, to the greatest extent possible, that those found guilty of similar crimes and have the similar criminal histories receive similar sentences, regardless of where in the state they may have committed that crime.

"Per your statutory charge, the Commission is required to provide information to the legislature, the executive branch, and the public regarding the costs to the Department of Corrections that result from sentencing practices, as well as the costs of enacting new or revising existing statutes affecting criminal sentencing. As you strive to meet these requirements and to create guidelines that promote and enhance public safety, the Commission should take into account the overall costs and effectiveness of sentencing practices. For example, the Commission should consider sentence lengths, both in terms of incarceration and extended supervision, to ensure that incarceration and supervision resources are allocated most effectively. Through your data collection and analysis efforts, the Commission may identify means to protect the public safety and reduce public expenditure at the same time.

"Any permanent guidelines that you create should include guidelines for the use of alternative sanctions. Violent felons should continue to be sentenced to serve lengthy prison terms. However, research demonstrates that taxpayer investment in alternative programs, including well-implemented rehabilitation and prevention programs for certain offenders, results in lower crime rates and lower taxpayer expenditures. The Commission should undertake efforts to ensure that Wisconsin is neither under-incarcerating violent offenders nor over-incarcerating truly non-violent offenders. As the body charged with reviewing our state's policies of incarceration and other crime control measures, the Sentencing Commission is uniquely positioned to consider this type of cost-benefit analysis and approach as you craft our state's new sentencing guidelines."

DATA & RESEARCH

The Wisconsin Sentencing Commission collects data on state sentences for eleven felonies constituting the greatest impact on state resources, as of 1999. The Commission receives sentencing guidelines worksheets from each sentencing court on each of those eleven offenses, recommends sentences based on the perceived severity of the offense and the perceived future risk of the offender, and determines the factors most associated with the sentences given. The Commission seeks to be a state and national resource for data and research on adult felony sentencing. It regularly reports on basic sentencing data in the state and issues annual and special reports on statistics and topics of depth.

Data Integration

In 2005 Commission staff began work on a National Institute of Justice grant to integrate all its sentencing data bases for analysis of factors associated with judicial decision-making. This integrated database will contain information on offender characteristics, prior criminal histories, sentences, and sentencing guidelines factors. It will provide the Commission with statistical information from three separate justice-related systems – DOC, CCAP, and WSC – and allow for a broader spectrum of analyses in the future.

Topical Reports

In 2005 Commission staff published an article on effective advisory sentencing guidelines systems in the Federal Sentencing Reporter and, at the time of this publication, have an article on sentencing and conventional number preferences under consideration for publication with a national peer-reviewed journal.

Periodicals

Commission staff produces a periodic series of short, concise reports on various aspects of sentencing and criminal justice. Entitled Snapshots on Sentencing in Wisconsin, the series included 19 installments in 2005, available at <http://wsc.wi.gov> under “Reports & Publications”:

WORKSHEET REVISIONS & NOTES

In 2005, after extensive feedback from state judges and other worksheet users, the Wisconsin Sentencing Commission completed a thorough revision of its existing temporary guidelines worksheets and their accompanying NOTES, which explain the worksheets. The pages that follow are copies of the worksheets for each of the eleven worksheet offenses. The Commission plans to make decisions about the worksheet grids and to adopt permanent sentencing guidelines in 2006.
